ON TRIAL

SECOND TIME

Suit of Dr. Baird Against Ohio County.

Comes up Before Judge Evans—Baird Makes Poor Case.

The suit of Dr. A. B. Baird against Ohio county was tried the second time before Judge Evans at Owensboro Tuesday of this week. The defendant had entered a motion to vacate the agreement made before a former trial to waive a jury. The court overruled the motion and tried the case over the protest over the attorneys for the county. The Court of Appeals having decided that the note sued upon was void it, became necessary for the plaintiff to furnish the claims and amounts which formed the basis of the note. In this he made a very poor showing as he was not positive on any particular claim, although he read out about $6000. of orders made by the fiscal court from 1889 to 1893. The court held that he would not be entitled to recover anything except amounts which he could show that he could show that he owned in excess of $5,500 which it was admitted that the county had heretofore paid. Attorneys for the county filed sheriff's settlements for those years and pointed out to the court that more than $2,000 of the amounts which Baird mentioned as among those which he thought he owned had been paid by the county to the very persons to whom they were allowed and were credited to the sheriff in his settlement. The court indicated very clearly that the plaintiff had not made out his case, as he had only mentioned about $400 even allowing him everything which he claims in excess of the $5,500, which had been paid. With the $2,000, or more shown to have been paid by the county deducted the plaintiff will fall far short of any basis for a judgment. The case was argued by both counsel for plaintiff and defendant Wednesday night and was taken under advisement by the court. It will probably be several weeks before he hands down his decision. If a judgment is rendered against the county for any amount whatever the case will again be taken to the United States Court of Appeals.

The following Ohio county citizens were in attendance at the court either as attorneys or witnesses: J. E. Fogle, F. L. Felix, M. L. Heavrin, C. E. Smith, C. M. Barnett, E. M. Woodward, R. Holbrook, C. P. Keown, L. P. Foreman, George Bunker, W. S. Tinsley, Lewis Riley and John King, of Hartford; J. P. Miller and G. W. Martin, of Croomwell; J. P. Stevens, of Beaver Dam; S. L. Fulkerson, of Rockport; J. W. Bowling, of Narrows; W. P. Ellis, Deanfield; Joe McKinley, of Westerfield.

The following from Ohio Co., served as Jurymen R. T. Reader, Beaver Dam; R. A. Anderson, Hartford and W. F. Condit, Matanzas. Will Riley Dean, of Dundee, served on the grand jury.

Sells Interest in Restaurant.

Saturday Mr. Joe Tate sold his interest in the City Restaurant to his partner, Mr. H. N. Tate, who will conduct the business in the future. Mr. Tate, who has sold his interest, has not decided what business he will engage in, but has moved with his family to Beaver Dam, where they resided before coming to this city.

Delegates are Named.

At the regular meeting of Rough River Lodge No. 110, Knights of Pythias Tuesday night it was voted that twenty-five members be selected by Chancellor Commander J. B. Tappan to represent the local lodge at the fifth District meeting of the Knights of Pythias, that meets at Owensboro for one day, Friday May 26. Already many from this city have signified their willingness and desire to go, and it is thought that Rough River lodge will be well represented. The following were specially appointed to attend the convention, and it is the desire of the lodge that all who can do so attend.

C. M. Taylor, and J. H. Thomas, of Beaver Dam; Z. Harrell, of Rockport;

W. E. Ashby, of Centertown; M. B. Barnard, Morris Barnett, B. S. Chamberlain, E. P. Moore, O. R. Tinsley, W. H. Rhoads, Fred Miller, W. J. Bean, A. E. Pate, John T. Moore, Rev. J. W. Bruner, Dr. H. J. Ball, R. D. Wilker, W. R. Carson, J. S. Ford, Albert Rial, J. W. Sanderfur, R. E. Lee-Simmerman, L. M. Ward, J. C. Ilor, and J. H. B. Carson.

Lost Fine Sheep.

During the rain storm last Sunday Messrs. F. W. and Henry Pirtle lost some fine sheep. The high water compelled the sheep to seek higher ground, which afterward became flooded, and the animals were cut off from assistance. The loss is estimated at $60.

Blind Piano Tuner.

Mr. Arden P. Decker, of Leitchfield, a professional piano and organ tuner and repairer, has been in Hartford for a few days this week. He is a genuine in this line of work and no work is too difficult for him to undertake. Mr. Decker learned to do this work at the Kentucky Institute for the Blind, where he also received his classical education. He carries splendid recommendations from well known people for whom he has done work, and he guarantees satisfaction. We recommend him to our readers and any time you have any tuning or repairing Mr. Decker will be glad to call upon you. He intends to come to this city about every thirty or sixty days. He states that he does not ask charity, but wants to give you full value for every cent you pay him, and he will do it.

Raise $76,000 for Missions.

Louisville Ky., April 29.—The Rev. W. D. Powell, corresponding secretary of the Kentucky State Board of Missions for the Southern Baptist church to-night announced Kentucky probably would raise the entire fund of $76,000 for missions, that sum being the state's share of the million dollar fund being raised in southern states. The time for raising funds ended Monday night and Dr. Powell said in the past two days he had received almost $17,000 making a total so far collected more than $69,000. Plans for raising a million for missions were inaugurated at the Richmond, Va., convention last year.

LIEUT. BENNETT PROMOTED TO CAPTAIN

Ohio County Boy Serves Fifteen Years With Uncle Sam and is Rewarded.

The many friends in Hartford and Ohio county will be glad to learn that an Ohio county boy, W. E. Bennett, has recently been promoted to the rank of Captain in the regular army.

Captain Bennett undoubtedly has just cause to be proud of his distinction and rank for he is one of the very few men that enlist in the services of Uncle Sam as a mere private and stay with army life long enough to get a commission of any kind. About fifteen years ago Capt. Bennett enlisted in the infantry branch of the service. He has served in every office from corporal to first lieutenant, the latter rank he has held for several years. Just a few weeks ago he took the examination for the rank of Captain and passed with flying colors, answering satisfactorily every question. He has traveled extensively and has a wide knowledge of the customs of the foreign countries, and was actively engaged in the Spanish-American war.

Eight years ago Capt. Bennett married Miss Ida Purcell, of Red Hill, Daviess county, and they have a bright lad four years old. Capt. Bennett is the son of Mrs. S. E. Duke of this city. For several months he has been in command of a company of infantry at Fort Lawton, near Seattle, Washington.

TERRIFIC HAIL STORM VISITS OHIO COUNTY

Last Saturday Afternoon—Esq.

Miles Writes us About It.

Paradise, Ky., May 2, 1911. Editors Hartford Republican, Hartford, Ky.

Dear Sirs:—I thought it would be of interest to your readers to know that we people down in this part of Ohio county who still have and were not blown away by the storm, that passed through this part of the County last Saturday evening between three and four o'clock. The storm crossed the river at E. R. Williams' and did him considerable damage, taking off part of the roof of his dwelling house and otherwise damaged the house. Tore up his out houses, orchard and most all of his fence.

W. C. Overton was damaged to a considerable extent, the storm passing on in a south easterly direction about one mile wide doing considerable damage to J. A. Cummings, Layton Williams, Mrs. J. A. Miller, E. T. Hunley, Evan Davenport, in the way of taking off roofs of barns breaking out windows tearing down fences and orchards, but the worst of all was the hail, which fell to depth of six inches. The path of the hail storm was about one half mile wide, and three miles long. The wheat fields in its path were literally beaten into the ground and gardens were simply ruined, roofs that were not blown off were so worn by the hail that they look like new roofs now; but the sight is in the woods.

There is not a green leaf or bud to be seen. They look like the dead of winter with the small branches literally worn out from the fall of hail. The bark is peeled off like they had been gnawed by rabbits. It is a sight long to be remembered by those that have seen it, and with the wind and hail a terrific down pour of rain and we are looking for the highest water in Green river that was ever known. The writer is busy replacing culverts that have been washed out, something that is very rare in this part of the county.

Miss Mason Graduates.

Miss Janey Mason, daughter of Prof. I. S. Mason of Fordsville, will be graduated from the Fordsville High School this evening, and she will be the first graduate from this school. Miss Mason is quite talented, and while only seventeen years old was graduated from the common school five years ago. She also attended West Kentucky Seminary at Beaver Dam and Funk Seminary at Lagrange. The closing exercises of the Fordsville High School began Wednesday evening, which event marks the ending of a successful term. Much work has been done this year by Prof. Mason and Prof. Tandy and their splendid corps of teachers.

LOCAL POST OFFICE CLERKS ARE KEPT BUSY

On Account of New Orders From the Department Putting on Extra Work.

Every Hartford Republican, every post card, every circular letter, besides every letter and all the papers will be counted that go and come through Uncle Sam's hands during the month of May.

The Postoffice Department has made it the duty of all postmasters to assort mail as to classification and keep a correct record of the number of pieces each class during the month of May. The outgoing mail is to be classified the same way and a record kept of the number belonging to each class. Under this ruling it will take about twice the usual time to distribute the mail after its arrival. As the outgoing mail is to be so treated, it will be necessary for you to have your letters in the office in time to give the postmaster time to get them ready. So if you have to wait a while for your mail stand still and say nothing. This classification will, no doubt take a deal of time, but it lasts only thirty days.

The assistants in the Hartford post-office, Messrs. Gunther and Mills, said yesterday that this order had caused no end of extra labor and trouble and they would be glad when the first day of June rolled around. The rural route carriers are also affected in this order and they are having the same "fun" as the other attaches of the post-office here, but are going about their work diligently, and not raising much disturbance.

Lecture This Evening.

This evening at eight o'clock, in the court house in this city, J. W. Porter, D. D., of Lexington, Ky., one of the leading orators of the South, will deliver his famous lecture: "Our Wives, Mothers and Sweethearts." The lecture is one of high grade, witty, entertaining and elevating. You can't afford to miss it!

Dr. Porter comes under the auspices of the Baraca Bible Class of the Baptist Church. A small admission fee of 25 cents will be charged to defray expenses. Ten cents for children under 12 years. Go and take somebody with you!

POND RUN.

April 25.—Mrs. Lawrence Allen is the guest of her sister Mrs. Leota Cummins. Several from here attended the funeral at Taylortown of Mr. Lewis Brown who has resided in Hartford the past two years.

Born to Mrs. Layton Williams the 17th a boy.

Mrs. Catherine Taylor is visiting in this vicinity.

Mrs. Mary Bennett, Ceralvo, and children are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Shull.

Sunday School is progressing nicely.

ly. There were eighty present Sunday.

Miss Dink Wheeler, Aldria, visited at Mr. Ed Williams last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Pen Chinn spent Sunday at Mr. Wm. Chinn's.

Mr. J. R. Shull who has been sick for some time is improving at this writing.

Miss Willie Brown, spent Saturday night with Misses Rhoda and Magie Williams.

Mr. Wm. Chinn and wife attended the funeral of Mr. Tom Chinn's baby.

Office Closed on Sunday.

Acting upon the expression and sentiments of the business men and citizens of Owensboro, the postmaster general has issued an order that the postoffice at Owensboro be closed on Sunday. The order went into effect last Sunday.

Dividend.

By direction of the Ohio Circuit Court, the undersigned will as assignee of the Ohio County Bank, at his office in Hartford, Ky., on May 20th, 1911 pay on properly verified demands against said bank dividend number one to the amount of ten per cent on the principle of each of said demands.

A. E. PATE, Assignee Ohio County Bank.

Returns to Native Home.

Mr. E. S. Parrish and family arrived in Hartford Monday from Shawnee, Okla., where they have resided for the past five years, leaving Ohio county at that time. Mr. Parrish was born and reared in this county, and did well in the West and would have remained there but the health of his wife was not good, and they decided to return to Kentucky. Mr. Parrish will engage in farming as soon as he rents or buys a suitable farm.

What Bad Roads Do.

Bad roads cheapen land; they make schools a failure; they discourage the raising of good stock; they encourage the use of rickety old vehicles; they keep down local pride, county pride and individual pride. They encourage all that should not be done and help keep down all that should be done. Bad roads lead to poverty in this life, and in the next world everybody knows where the bad roads lead.—The Leader, Hardinsburg, Ky.

DISPUTE ENDS IN A CUTTING SCRAPE

At Grassy Creek Tuesday Afternoon—Ed Johnson Surrenders.

Tuesday afternoon at Grassy Creek, about fourteen miles below Hartford, Messrs. Josh Crowe and Ed Johnson engaged in a dispute, which resulted in Crowe being stabbed in the abdomen.

According to Johnson the facts of the trouble are as follows, but it is reported that Crowe tells a different story: Johnson and Crowe were partners in some kind of fish net, and the dispute arose over it. Crowe started after Johnson with an iron rod, which was wrenched out of his hand. Crowe then picked up a shot gun, but Johnson took this away from him and threw the shells away. By this time Johnson had his pocket knife out of his pocket and stabbed Crowe as related above. He says he offered to take Crowe to his (Johnson's) home but to this he refused and Crowe's eighteen year old son assisted him to his skiff and rowed him to his house boat, which was about three miles away.

Johnson telephoned to Centertown for medical aid and Drs. Crowe and Smith went quickly to the injured man. Yesterday morning he was reported to be in a very bad condition. Only one wound was inflicted, but is quite dangerous. Johnson appeared before Esq. J. C. Jackson, of Centertown, Wednesday and gave bond to the amount of $200. The examining trial will probably be held next Thursday before Esq. Jackson.

To Build New Depot.

It is rumored that the I. C. and the L. & N. will build a large union freight depot at Nortonville. The increase in the freight business of both roads makes it imperative that better facilities be provided for the interchange of freight at that point.

O'REAR OPENS CAMPAIGN

For Nomination for Governor.

Thunderous Applause of Western Kentuckians Greets Appellate Judge at Hopkinsville.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 1—Amid the thunderous applause of 1,200 citizens of Christian, Trigg, Caldwell and Hopkins counties gathered in the Court House here to-day, Judge E. C. O'Rear, in opening his campaign from the stump for the nomination for the office of Governor, defined clearly his position on the tobacco question, the initiative, the referendum and recall, the county unit, direct primary, bank examiners bill and other live issue in a speech lasting almost two hours.

Judge O'Rear in discussing the tobacco question said he had no sympathy with the element which attempted to distort his views through selfish motives, but said he would adhere to the position he took on this proposition in 1907, that anyone who violated the law should be punished, individuals and corporations alike, but that he did not believe in punishing the weaker and permitting the stronger ones financially to go free.

The trusts, he said, were the greatest power under the sun except the power of the people and it remained for the people to exercise that power, which they now have the opportunity to do. This question brought the speaker to the remedy, which, he declared, was in the initiative, referendum and recall, whereby officials who violated their oath of office could be relieved of duty and the will of the people could prevail by the enactment of the proper measure to meet the evil, concluding with the statement "unless the people rule the politician will." The "Third House" came in for a thorough roasting at the hands of the speaker, who pledged himself to exercise his every legitimate power, should he be elected, to wipe that body out of existence.

In anticipation of the occasion, the large court room was filled to overflowing long before the hour set for the beginning of the speechmaking. The main floor was packed as was the gallery and the aisles were filled with anxious listeners. Prior to the appearance of the speaker, the Hopkinsville Military Band played a series of patriotic airs.

When Judge O'Rear appeared he was greeted with a wild burst of enthusiasm which displayed the feelings of the voters of Western Kentucky towards him.

C. R. Clark, a leading Republican of Christian county, in a neat speech of introduction said he did not believe this formality was necessary but that he was glad of the opportunity to say a few nice things about the Montgomery county man.

GOOD TURNS BY SCOUTS

Reports to Headquarters
Shows Good Influence.

Noted People Helping in the Boy Scout
Work.

There are 500,000 Boy Scouts in America. That means that there are 600,000 good turns done daily by American boys. While the boys are taught to get as much out of the woods as did "Huck" Fin and Tom Sawyer, the idea of a daily service is impressed upon them. They are first to be helpful to one another, courteous to strangers and helpful to women and children.

Hundreds of scout masters have sent to national headquarters reports telling of the good turns the boys are doing. Recently in Twenty-third street, New York, a half blind man was walking along near where construction work was done. Pieces of lumber were being carried out of the building. Three youngsters, seeing the old man making his way feeble along, and fearing he might be hurt, rushed up to him and helped him pass the dangerous spot. When a lady asked them if they were boy scouts they said, "Yes, indeed this is the third good turn we have done today." Straightway they made a third knot in their neckties. William Archibald, of 538 West One Hundred and Forty-second street, a scout master says that his youngsters have volunteered to lead the blind boys to and from the public schools.

Howard W. Baldwin, Great Barrington, Conn., reports that his boys are helping their father's business and are assisting aged women to cross the streets. Frank W. Barber, of Amesbury, Mass., has taught the boys to pick up loose paper in the streets, and thus prevent runaways. E. Victor Bigelow, of Lowell, Mass., has got the boys to replace signs in the street and to give up their seats in the street cars to women.

John K. Borgo, of Bristol, Tenn., reports that the boys have done good work in stopping forest fires. Robert D. Bussley, Centralia, Kans., writes that the boys are fond of doing two things—namely, hunting possums and doing little turns for the poor boy's home. Frederick H. Bowen, of Springfield, Ill., is proud that his boys daily carry flowers to the sick in hospitals. J. Harold Bowen, Putnam, Conn., has taught his boys to protect dumb animals. Lester Brasfield, Oakland, Cal., says his boys help people cross streets. The scouts under T. J. Chipp of Philadelphia are helping their mothers with the housework. The underfoot of Henry S. Douglas New London, Conn., do not accept any tips for courtesies to strangers. J. Herbert Darcy, Sioux City, Ia., stationed his boys on Halloween to protect window haystacks. The boys under S. N. Foster, Lincoln, Neb., wash dishes for their mothers.

Guy W. Gold, of Spring Valley, New York has charged his boys to protect trees planted by the Civic League. Reports from other Scout Masters show that the boys are doing many things willingly and smilingly for their parents since they became Scouts that they used to do grudgingly before. One boy set free a trapped dove; another made a specialty of unchecking horses, and speaking to drivers about the harm of high checking. W. H. Butler, Floresville, Tex., speaks of the "daily good turn," writes that the boys are visiting the sick, doing little acts of courtesy and kindness to each other and home folk. They tie horses for ladies, are charitable, thoughtful of language, run errands and help each other; sacrifice some pleasure, perform duties more cheerfully, think of others rather than self and are kind to animals.

Edmond W. Fitz-Simon, The Rectory, Takado, N. Y., writes about the daily good turn "some of the boys the first to rise in the morning and light the fires for their mothers. Others again are quick to find opportunities of being kindly and helpful, giving strangers directions or carrying burdens for small children or aged persons."

"Boy Father" Making Good.
Brockton, Mass., May 3.—Deeply impressed by the pluck of Roy Baker, the 16-year-old "boy father," who is fighting so hard to keep the little Baker family together, Deputy Prison Commissioner Palmer of Boston, who was sent here by Governor Eugene Foss to investigate the condition of affairs of the Baker family, says the young chap is a wonder and he will hand over a very favorable report to the Governor.

"The boy deserves much credit and encouragement," said Palmer. "He's a wonder, one in a thousand."

Several months ago Baker's mother, Mrs. Mary Baker, was sentenced to Sharnon and her four children, Roy, age 16; Grace, aged 11; Mabel, aged 6, and Marion, aged 2, were brought before the court as neglected children. Judge Warren A. Reed was on the verge of sending all four to some institution, when young Baker spoke up and pleaded with the Judge that he be appointed guardian of his sisters. His plea was so strong that the Judge appointed him guardian and young Baker at once started to work and supported his three sisters. Baker's plan to the Governor was one of the most dramatic incidents at the State house this year. He went to the gilded dome, "held up" Senators and Representatives and asked them to sign his petition, then got an audience with the Governor and made a hit with his excellency because of his great show of manliness. "Mr. Palmer, investigated things here," said the lad, "and he's satisfied that I need my mother to help. I think I've won my fight and that mother will be pardoned."

RICH DISTILLER, 72, WEDS GIRL 26

J. H. Beam, of Nelson County, and Miss Anna Figg Brown
are Married.

Bardstown, Ky., April 29.—An unusual love affair of eight months' standing found culmination in the wedding tonight of J. H. Beam, President of the Early Times Distilling Company, and Miss Anna Figg Brown, of Nelson county. Beam, who is reputed worth $500,000 is seventy-two years of age, while his bride is just twenty six. The latter is extremely pretty and has been the acknowledged reigning belle of the county since her debut.

This is the bridegroom's third matrimonial venture, both of his former wives being dead. He has known his present wife since childhood and years ago when transacting business with her father, Charles C. Brown, at the latter's home, he bouched her as a rollicking lass, on his knee.

The engagement of the pair has been rumored for three weeks, but news of the wedding tonight brought forth not a little surprise among the villagers. The marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's father here. The couple will spend the honeymoon at Yellowstone Park, and returning, will take up their residence at the paternal home of Mr. Beam at Early Spring.

Clinton, Ky.—Mrs. M. C. McElroy, in a letter from Clinton, writes: "For six years, I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat, and could not stand on my feet, without suffering great pain. I had lost hope. After using Cardui a week, I began to improve. Now I feel better than in six years." Fifty years of success in actual practice, is positive proof, furnished by those who have tried it, that Cardui can always be relied on for relieving female weakness and disease. Try Cardui, to-day now. A-4

"HAY BURNING RAILROADS"

Oxen were Used in the Early Days.

Texas Line Used This as Motive
Power Before
Steam.

Trains that got belated these days are cursed and discussed by the traveling public, who often wonder what the matter is. When they can find nothing else in the world to criticize it is a pleasure to have the railroad company to pass judgment on. Many old railroad stories have gone the rounds of the hardships of railroading in the early days and one of interest is that which is told by a Denison man of the line which is operated between Marshall, Texas, and Shreveport, La., during the civil war.

The management of the road made money. They did not have a railroad commission after them every day in the year. After selling the line to the Texas and Pacific the management of the line went into the livery business in Marshall.

The management and owner of this place of road was one man and it is said that his name was John Higginson. He held the many responsible positions of the line. Some of his titles were Chairman of the Board, President, Vice President, superintendent, trainmaster, roadmaster, freight and passenger agent, fireman, conductor and master mechanic.

The road was known as the Memphis, El Paso and Pacific and was forty miles long. On leaving Marshall there was a long grade and the balance of the line was also full of grades. During the war the soldiers took all the rolling stock off the road except three box cars. These cars represented the rolling stock of the system until it passed into other hands. The motive power was of the best in those days and consisted of several yokes of oxen, commonly known as hazy-burners. The oxen were responsible for the trains being on time and they were generally to the minute, it is said. Mr. Higginson was known to be the first Pullman in railroad history.

The train was operated on the tri-weekly plan. When the cargo was gathered up and everything ready for the trip, the oxen were loaded into the first box car on the train. The next car was loaded with freight and passengers and the third was occupied by the "management." The cars were started down the steep grade out of Marshall and after rolling as far as they would the brakes were set, the oxen unhooked and hitched to the coupling of the car. The brakes were released and the train started up the grade until the top was reached, when the oxen were again loaded into their car and another start was made downhill. This performance was repeated until Shreveport was reached. On a level the oxen pulled the train, but down grades were always taken advantage of.

This is said to be the second hay-burning railroad in the history of the United States. The first was when the Baltimore and Ohio used horses to haul the freight and passenger trains over the 15 miles of track first constructed. The Baltimore and Ohio later turned out to be one of the strongest railroad systems in the United States.

Boy is Burned at Stake.

St. Louis Mo., May 3.—Edward de Donato, 5 years old, of 352 North Whittier street, was dangerously burned while playing Indian. Dr. R. M. Wilson says he must remain in bed several weeks.

With four older boys, Eddie was playing on a vacant lot near his home. All wore Indian suits. There was a mimic battle and Eddie was captured as a hostile brave. He was doomed to burn at the stake. A bonfire was built and the other boys surrounded Eddie and danced about him, constantly closing in and forcing him nearer to the fire. The fringe on his trousers was ignited. The other boys ran away and Eddie ran to the street. A boy driving a grocery wagon saw him and extinguished the flames by rolling him in a horse blanket. Eddie stoically refuses to tell who his companions were and Mrs. de Donato said that she has been unable to learn their names. The boy's right leg was burned its entire length. Though he will likely recover the healing process will be slow, Dr. Wilson says.

Averts Awful Tragedy.

Timely advice given Mrs. C. Willoughby, of Marengo, Wis., (R. No. 1) prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. "I have been using it for some time, she wrote "and the awful cough has almost gone. It also saved my little boy when taken with a severe bronchial trouble." CHURCHES AWAKENING AND USING THE PRESS

Advertising Columns Added to Manuscripts by Mr. Jenkins of Immanuel Presbyterian.

Widespread attention has been attracted to the policy of one of Milwaukee's churches in endeavoring to reach as large a number of people as possible with a knowledge of its services, their nature and aims, and the desire of the church to affect the spiritual life of the community.

This is Immanuel Presbyterian church, of which Dr. Paul B. Jenkins is pastor. Beginning with its street car cards, the church has met with results so definite as to lead it to extend its methods to include men and to the use of the regular advertising columns of the press. Blotters bearing the name of the church and mention of its services are regularly placed on writing desks in hotels.

Dr. Jenkins says: "There is nothing sensational about it. We are simply trying to do the business of the kingdom of God in a business like way; that's all. We believe absolutely in conversion as the indispensable entrance upon the Christian life, but we believe that a man must come to church if he is to be reached by the message of the church. And we believe that any man will come if he is once convinced that the church has a message for him that he would be interested to go and hear. And we are trying to convince him."

FRIDAY, MAY 5,

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce Hon. W. S. Dean a candidate for re-election to the office of Representative in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Republican party.

England is also complaining at the high cost of living. Wonder what the "escape goat" is there. They have no protective tariff to lay it on.

There are strong indications that the Kentucky tobacco grower is at last coming to the realization that his only salvation is with the American Society of Equity.

The next few years is likely to witness a most gigantic struggle in the United States between capital and labor. If capital is successful, organized labor will be crushed for years to come.

Some of the millions of dollars paid out by the National Government annually for the benefit of rivers and harbors could be better and more profitably expended in building good roads in the various states.

President Taft missed a splendid opportunity to place himself right with the old soldiers of the country when he failed to dismiss Secretary McVeigh for his wanton insult to this honorable class of our citizens, in a recent speech.

When a man is elected to Congress as a Republican or Democrat he should conscientiously endeavor to carry out his party platform and act with his party associates, or resign and suffer someone else to be nominated by his party and elected by the people.

Our friend Harry Summers of the Elizabethtown News is being favorably mentioned for the Democratic nomination for Lieut. Governor. Mr. Summers is one of the very best men in Kentucky, and if nominated at all should be given a better place on the ticket.

The average farmer does not realize how he is impoverished from year to year by his inability to get to market promptly with the products of his farm, over roads which are passable all the year and on which he can transport a heavy load with a light team.

The American Tobacco Company one day this week declared a dividend of 7-1/2 per cent in addition to the 2-1/2 per cent quarterly dividend. This makes a seventeen per cent dividend. Looks like the "poor" trust ought to be able to pay better prices for tobacco this fall.

Mr. Charles W. Parrish, at present a clerk in the State Auditor's office is making a splendid fight for the nomination for State Auditor. He is a young man full of vim and vigor and holds from a section of the state which should have a place on the ticket. He came within a few votes of being elected to the Legislature from Woodford County four years ago.

The people of Kentucky need at the head of the State government a young live progressive man who will take the lead in bringing about necessary reforms which will take the state out of the rut into which it has fallen and where it does not belong. This is not likely to be done by an old antiquated politician who is wealthy, and who has made all the reputation which he can hope to make this side of the grave.

The Republicans of Kentucky have heretofore criticized the Democrats severely for rotation in office. That is, for nominating members of the state administration for other offices thus evading the law which makes them ineligible for re-election. We can't afford now to be guilty of the same offense. Almost every member of the present State administration is a candidate for some position on the state ticket, and if their desires were carried out the coming state ticket would be entirely of the present state administration only in different offices. Let us have a new deal.

The recent decision of the Court of Appeals on the whiskey tax case is a just one. The liquor interests have never paid their just share of the tax burdens of the Commonwealth. Whiskey in warehouse is valued at $8 per barrel while the actual value is almost three times that amount. Why should this class of property escape when all other kinds are made to pay taxes to the full extent. Besides the liquor interests are continually demanding a voice in politics far out proportion to the just rights of this so-called industry all over the country. The valuation of whiskey in warehouses for state and county taxation should not be less than $15 per barrel.

A BIBLE STORY.

A few weeks ago a pitiful case was brought out in a Police Court trial in a Kentucky town of about 1000 inhabitants, situated in a large agricultural and mining county above the average in wealth and intelligence. A traveling book agent had sold a bible to a lady for $4.75, taking a note therefor which was signed by the woman, who also signed her husband's name. In the course of time this note, having been deposited in a certain bank for collection and not being paid when it fell due, was placed in the hands of attorneys who brought suit against the woman and her husband in the aforesaid police court. The woman testified that she and her husband owned no property of any value; that he could not read nor write and that she had signed the note under a misapprehension that it was merely a memorandum or contract showing that she had purchased the bible and how much she should pay for it. She said that she had always longed for a bible, one that would contain a family record wherein she could record the births of her two bright-eyed little children who played around her while she was on the witness stand and that she thought that she could pay for it with her surplus chickens last year, but that on top of other misfortunes the chickens had all died, and tears came to her eyes as she told how it broke her heart to have to give up the bible after she had been permitted to read it for several months. Under the hard rules of law, judgment went against her but a number of bystanders and attorneys who were deeply touched by the woman's recital agreed that she should have the bible at all cost, and at the conclusion of the trial her attorney went down the street to a book store and bought a beautiful bible with a bright face and a light heart. No gentle reader, this did not happen in China, Korea or even Africa, but in HARTFORD, KY. It is a true story and is given for the benefit of many of our people who work over time and remain awake at nights worrying about the heathen in other lands, when within less than ten miles of our town our own people are longing for copies of the christian's bible, but who are without means to purchase it and doubtless frequently are too proud to admit it.

GOV. WILLSON SINGS MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME

Solo Feature of Banquet by Pittsburg Harvard Club.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 1.—One of the special features at the banquet given by the local Harvard alumni in honor of President Lowell, of the University at the University Club was a solo sung by Gov. Willson, of Kentucky who was one of the honored guests. In compliment to the Governor the entire company was singing "My Old Kentucky Home." The chorus to the second verse had been chanted out, when President Percival Eaton stopped the orchestra and announced that Gov. Willson would sing the third verse as a solo. Opinions may differ as to whether Kentucky's Governor can really sing, but there is no room to question the approval with which his effort was received. The company gave the closest and quietest attention, and joined with a him when he reached the chorus, and after that they gave him all the famous Harvard yells and slogans of approval in the repertoire. Then they made him sing the verse a second time.

Trustee's Sale.

In the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Kentucky, Owensboro division. In the matter of Faught & Rowe, bankrupts. As trustee of the above estate, I will on Thursday, May 16, 1911, at 2:30 p. m., on the premises lately occupied by said bankrupts in Centertown, Ohio County, Kentucky sell to the highest and best bidders, the following described property.

One lot in Centertown, Kentucky beginning at a stake corner to H. B. Faught's lot; thence with said lot 200 feet South to a stake in L. C. Morton's line 130 feet to a stone thence with said Morton's line 100 feet North to a stake; thence North 100 feet to a stake in side of Centertown and Hartford road; thence East 15 feet to the beginning. Conveyed to S. W. Rowe by L. C. Morton, January 13, 1899. Deed book 29, page 640.

2. Beginning at a stone in L. C. Morton's line; thence with his line 100 feet to a stone; thence East 75 feet to a stone; thence North 100 feet to a stone; thence West 75 feet to the beginning. Conveyed to S. W. Rowe by L. C. Morton, January 13, 1899. As shown by deed of record in Ohio County Clerk's office, deed book 29 page 640.

The above described lots will be sold separately and then as a whole. The method by which the most money is realized will be accepted.

1 will also offer the following described property for sale. A lot in Centertown, Ohio County, Kentucky on the corner of Fourth and Gum Streets, fronting 150 feet on Fourth Street and 150 feet on Gum Street, and being the same conveyed to U. S. Faught by J. L. Smith, et al., and not recorded.

All of said property will be sold free of liens. Any valid liens against same will be transferred to the proceeds of the sale. All sales will be for cash in hand. 424 G. B. LIKENS, Trustee.

Newspapers vs. Circulars.

A writer in the New York Times recently compiled some impressive figures as to the relative cost of advertising in newspapers and advertising by the circular method.

In greater New York there are more than a million families. To put a circular into every one of these families the Times writer says, would cost for one cent postage, alone more than $10,000. The paper, envelopes, labor of addressing, etc., would cost $5,000 more—$15,000 for something that would not even be looked at by the public to whom it was addressed. The average circular does not pay as much as could be told in 300 lines in a newspaper, and "an advertisement of that size placed in all the morning newspapers could be put before every New York family reading English newspapers—about one million a day—for some $800." This brings the conclusion that "newspaper publicity, as to direct cost alone, is the cheapest there is, by many, many times."

It should not require any argument to convince the average business man that newspaper advertisements are read more extensively than circular advertisements. Possibly there are some persons who conscientiously read such advertising as is sent them by mail, but the great majority emphatically do not. As to the advertising matter that is thrown into front yards, on porches or under door the amount of it that is read is so infinitesimally small that it is to be wondered at that any progressive firm should resort to it under the deluded impression that it will help the trade.

It is undoubtedly a fact that a large amount of money is wasted every day in advertising by the circular method—money that could be profitably spent in buying space in newspapers. All circulars advertising is not valueless, but much of it is mere waste of money and it is easily susceptible of proof that better results can be obtained from newspaper publicity at a smaller expenditure.

The Consolidated School Question

Shall we have consolidated schools, or shall we not? This is one of the public questions most talked of among those interested in the best and most economical way to educate the children of the State. In an address given by State Superintendent Eggleston, of Virginia, he gives the following as some of the good reasons why we should have consolidated schools: "The verdict is well nigh unanimous that the one room school for all the children of the community is not, and cannot be the ideal place for a complete educational development. In the average one-room school the teacher has from thirty to forty classes in the six hours school days. This gives about ten minutes to a recitation. Thousands of teachers in the South have not ever eight minutes for a recitation. The time of the children is thus very largely wasted. Thousands upon thousands of our children sit in the school-room day after day waiting two or three hours for the next recitation. No one knows those things better than the teachers, who are powerless to remedy the conditions. These facts alone are sufficient to demand a change from the crowded one and two room school to something better. The large, centrally located school gives opportunity for a good grading of children. The increased number of children begets an enthusiasm and interest that are often lacking in the small school. We find that in these large schools the behavior is better; there is more earnestness of purpose; the children are mentally more alert; they are more ambitious, because the higher grades give them something to look up and forward to. And it is much easier to secure a good teacher to fill a vacancy in a large school than in a small one. She has more association with other teachers; her work is far less trying and wearing, and she has the satisfaction of seeing the children make better progress. "There are ten objections to consolidating schools and transporting children,—eight of these objections are imaginary; the other two are real. These two are bad roads and sparsity of school population, and they are applicable in only a comparatively few communities in the State. Our roads are being made better all the time and even bad, very bad roads would not prevent transportation of children. Of course, good roads would make it easier and more pleasant, but some kind of transportation can be done over most any kind of road provided the people are intelligently interested in their school. But after all else has been said, the best argument for consolidation and transportation is that they get more children into school, keep them there better and for a longer time, and give them opportunity for more rapid progress."

The residence of Mr. McHenry owned by Messrs. E. T. and C. M. Williams was struck by lightning Sunday night. The building was partially wrecked, but no one was injured. It was occupied by Mr. Claude Wakeland. The building was insured in one of A. C. Yeiser and Co. agencies.

An elegant 43-piece Dinner Set or a handsome 10-piece Chamber Set—each worth $6—will be given away free by the Ohio County Drug Co. Save your tickets on small purchases. When you get a dollar's worth you get a guess free at these valuable prizes. Try your luck.

Messrs. S. T. Barus and John E. Bean have been appointed election officers to hold the election for two school trustees, which is to be held at the College tomorrow afternoon. All voters should attend and take part in saying who shall constitute the Board of Education.

If a merchant were to advertise granulated sugar at 2c a pound, he would discover how many people there are who read his ads. ANY REAL PRICE CONCESSION brings a quick response. A merchant must therefore, put into his advertising some of the "pocket-appeal."

The large barn of Mr. Nat Lindley, of the Point Pleasant neighborhood, was destroyed by fire caused by lightning Saturday night. An adjoining cornerb was also destroyed. One mule, large quantities of corn and hay were destroyed and a gasoline engine damaged. Two horses were lost and a cow badly burned, which were the property of a tenant, Mr. Erskine Fulkerson. The total loss is estimated at $2,000, which is partially covered by insurance.

Belief in dreams is given more or less credence by many people and evidence of this was manifested recently when Miss Sophia Woerner, deputy in County Clerk Tinsley's office dreamed of some lucky number that would win the handsome chamber or dinner set at the Ohio County Drug Company's, that was given away free last Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. She told her sister, Miss Stella Woerner, of the dream and she went to the store and guessed 213 as being the lucky number under the seal. When the seal was broken Saturday the number was found to be 227 and Miss Woerner was the closest guess.

No, never, its foolish to fear a fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and low lands. These are the malaria germs that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C. When finely-chopped nuts are needed for cake, salad or sandwiches, the nuts should be run through the mincing machine.

Instead of using soap and water to polish painted surfaces, boil a pound of bran in a gallon of water and strain it.

To clean chambray skin so that it will be soft after the washing, wring it out of the soapy water and dry without rinsing.

For a slightly and tasty addition to the salad sprinkle it lightly with finely-minced green pepper or finely-shredded pistachio nuts.

Before using the broiler for fish, heat it and rub over with a piece of salt pork. It will make the broiling process simple.

Towels should be perfectly dry before they are placed in the linen closet or mild is liable to form upon them and cause skin diseases.

Neuritis may be often relieved by applying a cloth saturated with essence of peppermint to the seat of the pain and leaving it there.

Chiropractors say that a shoe that will not allow the great toe to lie in a straight line should not be worn if it is desired to avoid bunions.

While the whole eggs are generally used for dipping croquets, the yoke alone, with a little water added, will be found quite as satisfactory.

To keep the tulips used as table decorations, from opening wide, a tiny bit of wax should be dropped onto the calyx of each of the flowers.

Mount whalebone, the genuine article, be straightened by soaking before used in boiling water for a few minutes and then ironing it straight.

If mutton chops simmer in just a little water on the back of the stove before being broiled or fried the flavor will be quite like lamb chops.

A very weak solution of ammonia water is excellent for cleaning a diamond. It should be applied to the under side and will make it very brilliant.

CHICKEN SANDWICHES.

Mince up fine any cold boiled or roasted chicken, put in a saucepan with gravy, water or cream enough to soften it, add a good piece of butter, a pinch of pepper; then spread it on a plate to cool. Spread it between slices of buttered bread.

HAM SANDWICHES.

Make a dressing of one-half cup of butter one of salad oil, and little red or white pepper, a pinch of salt and the white of an egg. Rub the butter to a cream, add the other ingredients and mix thoroughly, then stir in as much chopped ham as will make it consistent and spread between thin slices of bread. Omit oil and substitute melted butter if preferred.

CELERY SANDWICHES.

Take half a cup of tender celery and quarter of a cup of nuts, both chopped, fine (peanuts are especially good) one and a half tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise dressing, a dash of cayenne and a quarter of a teaspoon of salt. Mix all these ingredients well and use as filling in sandwiches.

APPLES FRITTERS.

Take firm apples of uniform size and pare and core them. Cut crosswise and slice one quarter of an inch thick. Sprinkle with diluted orange juice and sugar and let stand 10 minutes; dry on a cloth, then dip in fritter batter and cook in hot, deep fat. Fry to a light brown, remove from fat with skimmer and dry in paper in an open oven until all are done. Roll in sugar and serve on a folded napkin. Eat with a sweet sauce.

FRICASSEE SANDWICHES.

When the chicken is about to be served for the second time let it be disposed of in hot sandwiches. Toast slices of sandwich bread (sandwich bread is the square kind) on one side. Butter the untoasted sides and fill with the hot chicken and gravy. It isn't a bad idea, when the chicken is being warm, to add a few bits of sliced cold boiled potato to the mixture. This is acceptable in the sandwich. Serve on hot plates, pour more gravy over the upper slice and sprinkle with cayenne. You may place on a lettuce leaf.

MOCK CHERRY PIE.

Cook one cup of cranberries, one-half cup of chopped raisins and two-thirds cup of cold water together until soft, add one cup of sugar and cook until dissolved. Then take one tablespoon flour, stir smooth in one-third cup of water and add to mixture for thickening. Let cool and add one teaspoon vanilla. Bake between the crusts and you will find it an excellent substitute for cherry pie.

NEVER FAIL PIE CRUST.

One cupful of flour, pinch of salt, two generous tablespoonfuls of lard, three tablespoonfuls of cold water. Mix and lard thoroughly with hands, then add water. This makes one large pie crust which never fails to be flaky and tender.

Bulldog Determination Builds Prosperity

Any town or community that gets a bulldog grip on prosperity is fortunate. But the bulldog grip will not hold if some citizens pull one way and some another. All must pull or push in the same direction.

For instance, if half the people want Main street macadamized and the other half insist that Central avenue should have the macadam and out for its side to be any macadam town. Once there is a creek running living on one side built at a certain the other side bridge at another sections fought so the issue that no One side of the from the other there are two there used to be Another way to make a half town out of a whole one is for half the people to buy their goods through the Mail Order Houses in the big cities while the other half buys from the local stores and factories.

If your place has the bulldog grip on prosperity don't pry it loose by pulling against your own local interests.

OLD KENTUCKY.

(By Savoyard)

The Kentucky mountaineer, of whom we have heard so much, mostly lies, is a quantity in the mighty equation of American citizenship somewhat corresponding to the Highland Scot of the time of Robt. MacGregor, or earlier, when MacCallum Moore was chief of the Campbellites. Let a Kentucky mountaineer, kill an enemy and every miserable and malleous pharisee in the land walls up his eyes and wishes his hands "with inviolable soap in impenetrable water," and bawls the "barbarism" that maintains in the proudest commonwealth between earth and sky, whereas incidental trivial remark is called forth by foul murder in other communities. It undertakes to say that in a given twenty-four hours "more crime, violent or stealthy, is committed in the city of New York than in the entire state of Kentucky in a given twenty-four days, and life, and property, especially property," are safer in Kentucky than in New York. In Kentucky it takes 100 per cent to give full title. In New York it requires only 51 per cent.

As for night riding, it is cowardly, brutal and a disgrace to the state. But the provocation is sore. The most onerous and the most long-continued farm labor husbandman ever engaged in is the planting, cultivating and the curing of a crop of tobacco. A trust was organized under the laws of the virtuous and high toned state of New York which it bought as well as to make this price of the goods which it sold. The largest magnitude of this concern is rated at $100,000,000, and men, women and children in Kentucky toiled and sweat at the hardest farm labor in the world to swell that man's gains. There is but one buyer of their product, and it is as conscienceless as that lean she-wolf Dante saw in hell. Hence night riding.

Nearly a century and a half ago there was night riding under comparatively trivial provocation in the Godly town of Boston. It is called the "tea party." It was just as lawless as any night riding Kentucky or Tennessee ever indulged in, and those who participated in it would have shed blood as remorselessly had there been resistance requiring it. But that tea party was a thoroughly patriotic shindig, and plenty of high-toned folks would be mighty glad to find that their granddaddies participated in it. So you see, it all depends upon the point of view.

"For lack of a monk the abbey will not close." Some weeks ago a negro was found guilty of grand larceny by a jury of Scott county, Ky., and it developed that it was his third conviction of a felony. Under the laws of the commonwealth, when one is threefold guilty of a felony, it is imperative that the sentence imposed be a life term in state's prison. It appears that this particular rogue had stolen a turkey of value adequate to lift the crime to the dignity of grand larceny, and as a Kansas rooster sold for $1,000, it is no violence to reason to suppose that Kentucky has a turkey gobbler worth $20. Here is some grief an eastern Pharisee wastes on this episode.

"It is inconceivable that in an enlightened community, in one of the great states of this Union, justice can be so trusted that it deliberately sentence a man to life solitude in the penitentiary for stealing a fowl. The press dispatches from Georgetown, Ky., says that this has been done. Such perversion should arouse the righteous wrath of every man, woman and child. The courts of a great state have been brought into disrepute. The victim of this remarkable judicial deliverance was a colored man, and his offense the theft of a turkey on the eve of Christmas. True, the man had served time before; but may there not have been extenuating circumstances? The bare facts only have reached the East, but the one fact that life imprisonment may follow such a petty crime insufficient to direct emphatic attention to what appears, from this distance, a miscarriage of justice in the great commonwealth south of the Ohio river."

Nobody, in Kentucky was even sentenced to "solitary" confinement in state's prison. "But may there not have been extenuating circumstances?" Hardly. The better opinion would be and the rational, that there were aggravating circumstances, for it stands to reason that a sneak thief thrice convicted of the crime committed some scores of other larcenies not discovered. This man is an incorrigible thief, bred in the bone. Where is a better place for such a miscreant than in the penitentiary? The following comment on this affair is gratuitous in view of the fact that white men have been sentenced to state's prison for life under the identical statute invoked in this case:

"The question may well be asked: Would this verdict have been rendered had the prisoner at the bar been a white man? Does prejudice against color in Kentucky prevent the administration of justice, always supposed to be blind and dealing with all classes equally fairly, regardless of social caste?"

And then our outraged sentimentalist wants the "intervention of some legislative or executive authority with power to undo this grievous wrong and he calls upon the Governor of Kentucky to render inoperative the verdict "sanctioned under the questionable authority of a habitual criminal act." He even is wrought to the point of suggesting congressional security, and beseeches somebody "to institute a radical reformation of the administration of the criminal statutes of this great old commonwealth."

Now what is that but the maudlin ravings that make martyrs of 97 per cent of our murderers whose cells are filled with rare exploits, laden with perfumes of Eden, and whose acquittal by sentimental juries is hailed with applause as the triumph of virtue over vice, the victory of liberty over tyranny? Here is the plea for the enlargement of this inveterate, hardened natural born thief, who would commit another larceny the first opportunity that offered after his pardon. There is nothing better established than that crime is progressive. Enlarge this man and the chances are his next crime—for he is as prone to crime as the sparks to fly upward—will be murder. It behooves the American people to find out that a criminal is not necessarily a saint, or even a hero, especially if he is a sneak thief.

When I was a boy, Alexander Ford, with a hickory limb whipped the three R's into me. Hard by the schoolhouse was David Philpott's apple orchard, that was as free to every boy in school as to his own sons and daughters. I well recall that one particular tree in the center of the orchard had more rocks and sticks under it, that we boys had thrown to knock the fruit down, than all the other trees together, and its fruit was sweetest to the palate and kindest to the stomach.

Old Kentucky is that tree, and I am glad that I am one of her sons. Let 'em knock her. Let 'em throw rocks and sticks.

CONSUMER FAILS TO BENEFIT BY DECREASE

In Price of Meat—Wholesale Rates Have Declined, But Retail Prices Stand Firm.

The head of the house who has to dig in his pocket two or three times daily to pay for orders of beef steak, veal, breakfast bacon or other requisites in the meat line is apt to be found questioning the quotations which indicate that there has been a marked decrease in the wholesale price of meat in the past year, as he continues to pay the same old price to the retailer. It is a fact, though, that there has been a big decrease in the price of beef and just why he has to keep up to the old-time prices at the corner market is what puzzles the householder.

The man with more than two in his family who aspires to a meal with a slice or two of breakfast bacon on the side learns, to his sorrow, that it would have been better, from a financial standpoint, to have patronized a cafe. When the bill for a few bits of veal steak comes in, he sees visions of a new spring suit disappearing. And so on, with other delicacies in the meat line.

The best beef sold at the local stockyards one year ago at $7.70 per hundred. It now sells at $5.50 to $6 per hundred. Veal calves one year ago brought 7 1/2 cents per pound. To day they bring 5 1/2 cents. Hogs brought then $9.50 per hundred. Now they bring $6.15. These are fair samples of the wholesale decrease within the year on live animals.

Wholesale houses are selling beef to the retailers at approximately 9 cents per pound; pork at 12 cents; lard at 8 3/4 cents, and veal at 9 cents.

The consumer pays 15 cents a pound for roast beef 20 cents a pound for beef steak, 30 cents for veal steak, 15 cents for pork chops and 15 cents for lard.

The best grade of breakfast bacon is sold by the wholesale at 19 cents per pound. The consumer pays for it 35 cents per pound.

The high prices therefore continue an unpleasant reality, but the why and wherefore remain a question.—Louisville Evening Post.

COMPOUND CALLOUSES Tells Splendid Cure for Them and All Foot Troubles.

A compound callos is the secondary stage when it grows inward and presses on the nerves, causing intense pain. Calloses never cure themselves but always get worse, sometimes irritating the whole nervous system. The following is a most effective and speedy cure "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide in a basin of hot water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (Less time will not give the desired results.) The soreness will disappear immediately and the callos can be easily peeled off. Repeat this for several nights. A little olive oil rubbed into skin is very beneficial."

This Calocide is a very remarkable preparation for all foot ailments. Bunions, corns and ingrowing nails get instant relief and are soon cured. Had smelly and sore feet need but a few treatments. Calocide is no longer confined to doctors' use. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is usually enough to put the worst feet in fine condition. It will prove a blessing to persons who have been vainly trying ineffectual tablets and foot powders.
